ATTACHMENT FOR $1,050 ISSUED AGAINST DOWIE.

Deputy Sheriff Wallace to-day received an attachment for $1,050 against property of John Alexander Dowle in favor of Robert A. Farley, a lawyer of White Plains.

The attachment was granted by Justice Gaynor, of the Supreme Court. It was obtained in Westchester County. Farley claims the sum is due him for legal services in fighting for I. Luther on, the faith curist and ex-member of Dowie's church.

Lawyer Farley says he was hired by Dowie to defend Pierson, who was fined $500 for allowing his daughter to die of nonia while he prayed for her Angry Crowd Attacked Doors at Secret Directors' Meeting of New York Building, Loan and Banking Association.

POLICE RESERVES HAD TO BE ORDERED OUT.

Believed Session Was to Be Public, but Officials Had Convened in Secret an Hour Before Appointed Time.

Reserves from the West Twentleth street and Tenderloin police stations were called out to-day to quell the dis turbance caused by 1,500 beggared share holders of the defunct New York Building Loan and Banking Association, who demanded admittance to the secret meeting of the directors in the Presby terian Building at No. 165 Fifth avenue, When last Monday's meeting of the 8,000 stockholders was adjourned, after threats had been made to throw the officers out of the windows, a meeting of the directors was called for to-day The directors said the meeting would

When they reached the building where the directors' meeting was to be held today they discovered that the directors had secretly met an hour before the ublicly appointed time. They also found that the doors were locked and their de mands for admittance were denied.

By this time a number of improme

The excitement was leading the stockholders well out of reason when rumor spread through the crowd that the directors had just voted to decrease the valuation of the stock 40 per cent. Then there was a call for men and a eader proposed that they break the doors in, when the police reserves came up on the quick march, The stockholders, who had confidingly deposited their savings in the consern, were swept into the streets and a po-lice patrol was established about them. This crowd served to attract others and Fifth avenue was blocked by the instrument, unable to speak because of lands and mountains thereabout. In the blood that clogged his threat. He made signs indicating that he wanted a pencil and piece of paper, and in characters barely legible wrote that he cld not know who fired the shot, and that so far as he knew neither he nor his wife had any enemies. He also wrote a brief description of the tragely.

One Cine to Murderer.

In the absence of direct suspicion it was a hunt in the dark, but the knowledge of the sort of shotgun used furnished a slight clue. Several cabins in the mountains, cocupied by persons whose reputations, are none too good, have already been searched for a copy of the Port Iervis Gazette of Oct. 20, 1903, with a piece torn out corresponding with the piece that formed the wadding. Recalls Hallenbeck Case.

There are plenty of muzzle-loading shotguns in that part of New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and it is certain that the crime was committed by some one vans was dead and Mr. Bevans was unconscious. There was no hope of saving his life.

That the weapon used by the murder or was a muzzle-loader and that the load of buckshot was driven home within three days before the deadly whots were fired is shown by a piece of the wadding found in the room. As in the case of Peter Hallenbeck, called to his door and shot by the Van Wormer boys, there is doubtless a clue somewhere that will lead to the murthly wormer than the crown of the Port Jervis Gazette of Oct. 20, 1903. World of the assassimation travelled fass and by morning probably 100 men had joined in a systematic search of the low-

Former Police Captain Daniel Moynihan, who managed to save more that dollars before he was retired attempted to furnish $23,000 bond for th his tried, which commences Monday, but District-Attorney Jerome turned him down cold.

"Not that Moynihan is not worth the money," said Jerome to the Court, "but do not believe he is of sufficient mora tody. Parks has only to wait unti Monday for trial and I think it is best for the ends of justice that he remai morning? None. And, under the Jesse Lewisohn decision which permits a witness to refuse to testify in supplementary proceedings on the plea that he might incriminate himself, there would be no way in which we could collect the bond if it were forfeited."

Moynihan went to the Criminal Courts Bullding and informed Assistant District-Attenny Rand that he was ready to furnish bonds for Sam Parks's appearance in any sum. Mr. Rand called in Mr. Jerome and they summoned James W. Osborne, Parks's attorney.

Osborne contended that Jerome was compelled to accept Moynihan as a bondsman so long as he could qualify with the necessary amount of real estate. Jerome disputed this, saying that there was no doubt in his mind that Moynihan, who was once charged with bribery and who was variously accused as to the methods used by him in accumulating his fortune, possessed perhaps a million dollars' worth of property, but he said he was not so sure that, after signing the bonds Moynihan would not immediately transfer all his property and that Parks would not disappear.
